KISSED IN THE STREET.

MISS KATE NEVILLE'S ASSAILANT AND HOW HE WAS TRAPPED.

"Be Still Now, and Maybe He'll Come at You Again.—Then I'll Take Him in Tow."

N. Y. Star.

A more disagreeable evening for a walk than that of Tuesday last could not be well imagined. On that evening Miss Katie Neville, of Yorkville, was obliged to leave her quiet home to attend to a matter of business. While on Fourth avenue she was approached by a young man, who looked long and earnestly at her as though he was smitten by her attractions. He passed her and walked rapidly on for some distance, when he paused and waited for her to overtake him. When she reached him he caught her in his arms and attempted to kiss her. Katie made a good fight and left the marks of her finger nails on the face of her assailant in a manner that he will remember until the scars heal over, at least, and this will take several days; even if he gets out of jail.

A reporter for THE STAR saw Miss. Neville last evening, and, after demurring very greatly at the publicity the affair had attained, she told her story as follows:

"I had promised to take home some work I had been doing for a lady who lives on Fourth avenue. The night was very disagreeable, b ing rainy and dark. I went through Seventy-first street to Fourth avenue and as I crossed Lexington avenue I saw a young man standing by the street lamp. I noticed that he looked pretty hard at me, but I paid no attention to him and walked as rapidly as possible. I had turned into Fourth avenue, and walked several blocks, when the same young man passed me, walking very fast. I thought it strange, and wondered somewhat at it, but walked on. As I neared the corner of the next street he emerged from the shadow of a building, and running up, caught me in his arms and attempted to kiss me. I battled with him with all my might, but he succeeded in forcing me into an area and there kissed me on both cheeks, and tried to kiss me in the mouth. All this while I was screaming as loudly as I could. At last he became alarmed and let me go, when I walked on as fast as I could, looking for an officer all the way Finally I met one, and told him what was the trouble! He said to me:

"Be still a bit now, miss, and walk back toward him, and likely he'll come at you again. If he does, I'll take him in tow.'

"So I went back, and sure enough at me he came, and said: "Ah, my dear, I have you now, and I'll kiss those lips of yours before you leave me this time.'

"By this time the officer had come up and almost swung him off his feet.

"'What's this you're doing?" he said, 'interfering with this lady. Come along with me, now.' The fellow was too much scared to say anything, and the officer marched him off forcibly to the station house. I think New York is a nice place to live in, but if a lady is unfortunate enugh to be even ordinarily good-looking she is a target for the glances, and perhaps the assaults, of every bad fellow she meets, especially in the evening. I hope this fellow will be made an example of."

Yesterday morning, in the Harlem Court Miss Neville's assailant gave his name as John Lamse, aged 28, living in Seventy-eighth street, near Third avenue. Justice Kilbreth held him in $300 to answer at the Special Sessions.

NeL York Stock Exchange.

NEW YORK, Nov. 21.—The greatest excitement prevailed on Stock Exchange this morning, and at one time a serious panic seemed almost inevitable, the scene on the floor of exchange was most tumultuous and a wish to sell stocks was so great prices dropped 3@4 per cent. at a time, until before the first half hour of business was over, the Deleware & Hudson had declined 20 per cent. and the rest of the list was all the way from 1 to 14 per cent. The men who are credited with this bear movement, are Jay Gould and James R. Kene, Russell and Sage Addison Commack. Many failures were expected from the great fall in prices, but only one has been reported. Edward Livermore, of No. 35 Broad street, who suspended this afternoon.

Switzerland and Cotton.

LONDON, Nov 21.—A Geneva dispatch says that at a meeting of the cotton operatives of the world at Switzerland it was resolved in view of the recent action of other countries and an ever increasing competition of English manufacturers who flood Switzerland with cheap goods to make a strong appeal to the Legislature to increase the import duties on foreign fabrics in order to save the Swiss cotton industry from ruin.

Those Indians Again.

DENVER, Col., Nov. 21.—Los Pinos despatches report Thursday devote to the taking testimony of Wass and Yanco, two runners were sent by Ouray to the White River Utes, prior to the massacre, they gave their statements without reservation, and Ouray states the renewed confidence on the part of those who are already testified will permit them make clean breast of everything. The hostiles met a commission with telling a consistent lie throughout, but Adams, coup detat brought them to realizing sense, and their position, and are now pleading for peace. They are thoroughly frightened and feras of a winter campaign exacted a promise to honestly testify and abide consequence. They say one big fight and the Indians ammunition will all be gone, no food, we starve." They begin to understand the utter fertility of further resistance, and now not only express willingly to submit to peaceful arbitrament, but desired the commission to continue to the final settlement. After the formal adjournment of the commission, Ouray made a speech which for the depth of the feeling power of eloquduce and a deep reasoning went far beyond any of his previous efforts. His words surprised and gladdened, sorely tried and disheartened the commissioners, A flood of light was cast upon his previous efforts all seeming that the inconsistencies were made clear, and Ouray now stands before the world as the white man's friend.

The Scales-Merrimon Marriage.

Correspondence of the NEWS.

GREENSBORO, Nov. 20.—For some time great preparation has been making in some circles, for the marriage of Mr. Branch Merrimon of your city, and Miss Alice Scales, whose father was long proprietor of the old Southern Hotel. Mrs. Scales' husband died years ago, and afterwards married Col. C. S. Winstead, of this city, who has given Nellie quite an elegant bridal outfit, consisting of an elegant violet dress, one garnet silk dress one gendarme, silk dress and others, etc., etc., with her millinery bill of five hats and bonnets, gotten up to match, by Mrs. W. P. Moore, of this city, all in all, decidedly the most elegant of any bride who has gone out from our midst for many years. We shall Miss Nellie, her cheerful voice and smiles, and happy is the fortunate man whose companion she is to be to bear life sorrows and joys.

Last night I was shown by the courtesy of Mr. Steele, of the Central Hotel, the handsome table set for the full employment of the inner man, which was loaded down with handsomely decorated cakes, oranges, California grapes, raisins and many other of the good things of earth, interspersed here and there with some nice geraniums in bloom and fragrance, and gotten up with great taste and expense. When I saw the room containing the handsome bridal presents, which consisted of eighteen parcels and pieces of silverware, of as many devices and for as many purposes, with also one shell card case, one high flower vase and stand, and one beautiful set of jewelry. In this exchange Greensboro is to be the looser, and Ralegh the gainer. Long before the hour for the marriage, 8 P. M., a great many had gathered at the M. E. church, where the ceremony was totake place, and which was handsomely decocated, namely, a very large and elegant mirror suspended on the wall at the back of the pulpit, overhung with lace curtains and wreaths of evergreens, a large pyramid of evergreens, natural flowers and frosted grapes, on the pulpit and two on the side, with a long festoon, reaching from the corners of the attic to near the ceiling (of evergreens and flowers) in the centre of which hangs an eighteen inch bronze horse shoe, in which is a vase of flowers. (Horse shoe is said to be an omen of good luck.)

At 8:15 the organ began to peal forth its mellow strains, when the attendants made their appearance in the following order:

Miss Dora Jones and Neil Ellington.
Miss Lizzie Seargean and C. R. Lee.
Miss Anna Jones and Van B. Moore.
Miss Ida Sloan and Sherwood Haywood.
Miss Kate Scales and W. A. Gorrell.
Miss Mattie Sloan and J. A. Barringer.
Miss Georgia Thacker and W. A. Bobbitt.
Miss A. Staples and W. W. Fuller.
Miss Anna Smith and B. B. Lewis.
Miss Annie Gray and Will Merreman.
Miss Jennie Wilson and Henry Scales, and the bride and groom.

The ceremony was by the pastor, Rev. D. H. Bruton, and at exactly 8:30 o'clock Merriman and Scales were pronounced one, and to-morrow, with this, wend their way to your city, their future home, and with them go the best wishes of many.

To-morrow, Mr. J. R. Hughes, of our city, goes to Graham to be married and bring home with him Miss Bettie Longest of that town.

Meteoric Disply Sure Enough.

Those who were disappointed at the failure of the meteoric shower predicted by a bogus astronomer, in St. Louis, for the night of the 13th, will receive consolation in the fact that, according to a statement made by Prof. Richard A. Proctor, one of the most eminent astronomers now living, in a lecture in New York, last Thursday night, we are to have one sure enough. On the night of November 27th, the lecturer said, we may expect to see a beatiful display of meteors radiating from a point near the star Gamma, in the right foot of the constellation Andromeda, which is now nearly overhead at about 10 o'clock at night. It has been ascertained that meteors follow in flocks in the tracks of comets. In 1846 Brela's comet was observed to split in two. The two parts each had a head and a tail, and they rushed on side by side—now one appears the brighter, and now the other, until they disappeared. At their return, in 1852, they were yet keeping up their swift race, but they had very much changed in form. In 1859 their perihelion passage was too near the sun to permit them to be observed. In 1865, when they should have been seen again, they could not be found. They missed in 1871. But it had occured to Alexander Herschel and to Professor Proctor that at the time when the earth crossed the path of those comets it would be well to look out for the meteors. Meteors were looked for, and a very brilliant display was seen on November 27th. On next Thanksgiving night this swarm of flying meteors will again come flying out of the Northern Heavens, and Prof. Proctor predicts that there will be a brilliant display in the sky. It may not happen, he said, because perhaps the meteoric cluster may have been dissipated, but he felt pretty certain that there would be a display. The lecturer advised astronomers to keep a lookout for about a week previous to the 27th instant in a quarter of the heavens from which the meteors approach, in order, if possible, to detect the cluster as it rushes end-on-end towards the earth.

GEORGE H. THOMAS.

STATUE OF THE GREAT COMMANDER UNVEILED IN WASHINGTON.

Stanley Matthew's Peculiar Reference to his Openness of Character—General Sherman's Averment and Private Randall's Letter.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 19.—The reunion of the Army of the Cumberland and the ceremonies of unveiling the equestrian statue of General George H. Thomas attracted a great crowd to the city to-day. The streets presented a gala-day appearance, most of the public and private buildings along the route of the procession being handsomely decorated. The decorations at the Fourteenth street circle, where the statue is erected, where rich and elaborate. Around the circle were thirty-eight lofty poles united by a rope of evergreens, each one bearing the ensign and coat-of-arms of a State, a panel commemorating a battle in which the Army of the Cumberland was engaged or the name of one of its deceased general officers.

At each of the four corners of the pedestal upon which the statue stands was a pole forty-three feet high, dressed to correspond with the poles representing the States, and flanked by muskets and field pieces, the spaces intervening being ornamented with pyramids of cannon balls. On the circumference of the circle a platform had been erected capable of holding 1,500 persons. The platform for speakers was within this, and on its corners were decorated poles, bearing panels, on which were inscribed the names of Anderson, Sherman, Buell and Rosecrans. In addition to these were panels at various points, bearing the names of Brig.-Gens. Terrell, R. S. McCook, Sill, Lytle, Harker, and Daniel McCook, who were killed in battle or died of wounds received while serving with the Army of the Cumberland. Hundreds of other panels were inscribed with the names of all the corps and division commanders of the Army of the Cumberland from the earliest to the latest period of its existence.

The procession was formed in Pennsylvania avenue, near the Capitol, and started promptly at 1 P. M. It was formed in five divisions, and headed by Gen. E. T. Crittenden and staff. The first division was composed of veterans of the Mexican war, posts of the G. A. R., the Veteran Club, and the German Veteran Union. In the second division were the local committees, Mr. Hayes and his Cabinet, the orator of the day, the Diplomatic Corps, Judges of Federal and district courts. Speaker Randall and members and officers of the House, Mayor and officers of the city government, civic societies, and the various societies of the army. The third division was composed of Battalion U. S. A., Gen. De Russey commanding, followed by Generals Sherman, Hancock, Schofield, McDowell and Davis, with their respective staffs. The fourth division was composed of the most distinguished Brigadiers of the army, who, with their staffs, presented a brilliant appearance. The fifth division was composed of prominent officers of the navy and visiting military companies, some of whom had been in the Confederate service.

The procession marched over the designated route, passing the White House, where it was reviewed by President Hayes, to the circle where the statute stands. The exercises here were interesting and novel. After prayer by the Rev. Dr. Paxton of the New York Avenue Church, who served in the late war as a private in a Pennsylvania company, "Hail to the Chief" was played by the Marine Band, and the "Star Sprangled Banner" was rendered by a male chorus of over one hundred voices, accompanied by the full Marine Band, drum corps, Battery A of the Second Artillery, and Battery C of the Third Artillery. These batteries were arranged on Massachusetts avenue and M street, the guns faceing eastward, and were fired by electricity, the wires being immediately under the control of Lieutenant Swift of the Signal corps, and all under the direction of Mr. L. E. Gannon. The statute was then unveiled by the sculptor amid the roar of the cannonade of a Major General's salute, in which the guns of Fort Whipple participated, at a signal waved to the heights near Arlington by a Sergeant of the Signal Corps from his perch of observation on the turret of a private residence immediately overlooking the circle, where his picturesque costume no less than his novel station, had already made him a conspicuous object in the surroundings.

Then was sung the "Grand Hymnus," the words written and the music composed for the occasion by Herbert A. Preston and Prof. Max Mueller, respectively. The hymn was sung by the same chorus and with the same accompaniments as in the case of the "Star Spangled Banner." The hymnus commenced by a solo of artillery and roll of drums, followed by an adagio movement introductory to an allegro vivace in triple time, being a greeting to the Army of the Cumberland. This was followed by an andantino movement, also in triple time, being an apostrophe to the memory of the honored dead. The proceedings closed with a grand march, illustrative of the gathering of the army in martial array, its triumph, and a thanksgiving for the victory won. The music of itself, and its rendition by the well-trained voices comprising the chorus, epitomized in song the success of our national arms in perpetuating a free and undivided country and the praise to God for these blessings.

Ex-Senator Stanley Matthews, of Ohio, was the orator of the day. In the course of his long address Mr. Matthews said:

Gen. Thomas was genial and frank in his communications, yet reticent and self-contained as to all that related to himself, neither inviting nor volunteering confidences. As he had nothing to conceal, his whole character was so transparent that he never opened himself to misconstructions. He did not take refuge from suspicions of ignorance in an affectation of the mystery of silence; for he was as a living epistle, known and read of all men. * * * He was neither a genius, accomplishing results without apparent means, by lightning strokes of magic and mere will; nor was he a favorite child of fortune, winning success by accident and chance against odds, plucking the flower safety out of the nettle danger, when, by the common laws of human conduct, he ought to have suffered the penalty of rashness and improvidence. * * * He did nothing by halves. He wasted no material or time in experiments the issue of which was indeterminate. He did not worry and wear out his ranks in purposeless marches and countermarches, to make them believe he was doing something when he was not. He determined what most important end was reasonably practicable; he matured the plan best adapted to secure its accomplishment, and carefully gathered and organized the means necessary for its execution. And then, when all things were ready, he launched the dread thunderbolt of power, and with one stroke, dealt the destruction he had devised. Mill Spring and Nashville—his first and last battle in the West—are capital illustrations of this feature of his military character. In reference to this last memorable and decisive battle of Nashville, the importuntty and impatience of his superiors, at a distance too great to appreciate the difficulties of his' situation, provoked from him no complaint. He telegraphed to the then Lieutenant-General: "I can only say I have done all in my power to prepare, and if you should deem it necessary to relieve me I shall submit without a murmur." When the time arrived for the delivery of the meditated blow, and its complete and thorough success was known, he received ample compensation for this temporary distrust, in hearty and ungrudging congratulations from President, Secretary of War, and Lieutenant General, as creditable to them as they were gratifying and just to him, confirmed, as they were, by the thanks of Congress for the skill and dauntless courage by which the rebel army under Gen. Hood was signally defeated and driven from the State of Tennessee."

At the conclusion of the address Mr. Hayes ascended the platform and said: "In the name of the people of the United States I accept this noble statue, so worthy of its subject, erected in honor of George H. Thomas by his comrades of the illustrious Army of the Cumberland."

This closed the exercises at the circle. It was estimated that 50,000 persons were in the throng that surrounded the enclosure. A general holiday was observed throughout the city, and the entire populace seemed to be in the streets.

Washington is becoming known as the city of bronze horses. In almost every public square the equestrian statue of some dead soldier or sailor may be seen. There is an endless variety of bronzed steeds of various shapes and sizes posturing in all sorts of possible ways upon stone foundations. The equestrian statue of Gen. Thomas is the best of any of the sort in Washington. It is located in the Fourteenth street circle. It faces the South and stands upon a granite base about twelve feet high. General Thomas is depicted as surveying the battle field of Chickamauga from a hill top. The fore feet of the horse seem to stand on a ridge, and the horses head is thereby so elevated that a person approaching the statue from the direct front cannot see the riders face. The likeness of Thomas is an admirable one and the position in which he is seated in the saddle is natural and graceful. The circle where the statue is placed is the centre of the fashionable portion of Washington. Magnificent residences surround it on every hand. Senators Bayard, Allison, Edmunds, Morrill and Windom live within a stone's throw of the statue. The fine residence of Gen. Schenck and the Wiley mansion, built by the Mexican government many years ago, front the circle. Within a radius of half a dozen squares nineteenths of the swell society folk, members of the foreign legations and the fat officeholders reside.

The contract for the statute was made with Mr. J. Q. A. Ward, nearly six years since, by a committee of the Army of the Cumberland, the price to be paid being $40,000. About six months ago he completed a design in plaster and sent it to the foundry of Bureau Bros. & Heaton of Philadelphia, who received $10,000 for their labor. The entire weight of the statute is about 7,500, pounds, the horse and rider weighing 5,300 and the base 2,200. The site selected for the statute is the spot where the salute of 800 guns was fired on April 3, 1865, in honor of the fall of Petersburg and capture of Richmond, and one week later another salute of 500 guns in honor of the surrender of Gen. Lee's army. The statute faces south, the line of vision being directly toward Arlington, the home of Gen. Lee.

A POET TO BE HANGED.

Reading the Entire Edition of the American Encyclopædia.

HARRISBURG, Pa., Nov. 19.—The application for a communication of the death sentence to life imprisonment in the case of Andrew Tracy, was refused by the Board of Pardons this morning. Tracy will therefore be hanged on Dec. 4. Tracy was convicted at the February term of the McKean County Court for the murder of his cousin and sweetheart, Mary Riley. Some time ago Gov. Hoyt signed a warrant for the hanging of Tracy on October 6. The most persistent efforts were made in his behalf before the Board of Pardons, but that body refused to stay the law. Then new points were sprung and a reprieve was granted until Nov. 5. At the last meeting of the Board the case was not reached, and the Governor again yielded to the importunities of Tracy's counsel and relatives are granted another reprieve.

Tracy's behavior in prison since and previous to his conviction has been very good He spends his time mainly in reading. In addition to a number of smaller books and newspapers, it is said he has read the entire edition of the American Encyclopædia carefully page by page. Some weeks ago Tracy wrote a poem, which was published in many of the leading newspapers throughout the State. That production has settled the conviction in many minds that there is not the slightest foundation in the plea of insanity set up in Tracy's behalf.

Mayor Cooper's Nominees.

It is understood on good authority that the departmsnt and other nominees of Mayor Cooper now before the Aldermen have become tired of being kept on the ice, and accordingly have determined to raise a pool to buy their confirmation. It is solid that $30,000 has already been raised for this purpose. The would-be officials have held several caucuses in the vicinity of Union square. If coming events cast their shadows before, these gentlemen should think before they put hands into their pockets to bribe themselves into office. There is some talk of legislation at Albany this winter that will affect many of the city departments.

The Busbee-Worden Marriage.

The wedding of Lieutenant Perrin Busbee, United States Navy, to Miss Olivia Steele Worden, daughter of Rear-Admiral Worden, of monitor fame, at the Epiphany Church, drew together a brilliant assemblage. Secretary Evarts and daughters, Rear-Admiral and Mrs. Rodgers, Misses Eleanor and Rachel Sherman, daughters of General Sherman, were among those prominent in official life. The bride entered on the arm of her father, preceded by the bridesmaid and ushers, and was met at the chancel rail by the groom. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Dr. Paret, rector of the church. The bride was attired in a rich white satin robe. The bridal veil and wreath were exquisitely fine, the folds of tulle completely enveloping her stately form. The bridesmaids, Miss Grace Worden, sister of the bride, and Miss White, of New York, wore cream-colored satin dresses, and, like the bride, carried bouquets of deep red roses. The uniforms of the groom and ushers and the evening dress of many of the ladies made the gathering within the chancel and church particularly imposing.

THE INDUSTRIAL FAIR.

LAST DAY OF THE COLORED PEOPLES FAIR.

Meritorious Exhibits Mentioned—A Good Exhibition and Taken as a Whole a Complete Success.

As stated in yesterday's NEWS, we continue to-day to notice the principal things on exhibit at the colored peoples fair.

John Price had on exhibition the largest hog on the grounds. A chester sow that would weigh between five and six hundred pounds—perhaps more.

Thomas Donaldson's Polan China sow and pigs were very pretty indeed and attracted considerable attention.

Patrick Spencer had a fine hog on exhibition.

The exhibit of hogs was very creditable and there are a number of others that deserve mention, but our space forbids.

Stephen Hawkins exhibited a good horse. He was entered as the best groomed horse. He certainly seemed to be well groomed when we noticed him.

W. A. Nixon's running horse, Kipo, was in the stables exhibited by Alex. Jones. Kipo is a good horse and seemed to have a walk over as far as running is concerned.

Almont, Buckskin, Henry Clay and School Girl, all trotters of reputation, were on exhibit, having been loaned by their owners to colored men to exhibit them, etc.

Alston, of Warren, exhibited a blooded colt—a pretty thing.

Henry C. Jones, of Raleigh, had his Jersey heifer and milch cow on exhibition. This is fine stock of Henry's.

Austin & Moore, of Raleigh had a home-made metallic casket on exhibition. This casket was made wholly by hand, by Jackson Austin, one of the firm. They are capital colored men, good workmen and deservedly enjoy a good patronage.

Reuben Rose had a top buggy made entirely by himself which would compare favorably with any northern made vehicle. It is a good piece of workmanship.

James Jones, of Newberne Avenue, Raleigh, exhibited some fine boots and shoes.

Henry Green, a colored deaf and dumb man of the colored institution in this city, exhibited a pair of boots made by her elf which reflects credit upon him as a workman.

Tokay Vineyard made a fine display of wines, this vineyard has quite a reputation.

The leaf tobacco display was excellent.

Tom Bridgett, of Wake, had a rousing pumpkin on exhibition but the boss one of the occasion was one raised in Franklin county, the exhibitor's name we could not learn.

John Canaan had some nice celery.

A fine display of pickels, preserves etc., were made.

Mrs. Robt. Wyche had some white soft soap on exhibition. Very pretty indeed.

ANSON.

LILESVILLE, Nov. 20.—That the Fair at Wadesboro of the Dixie Agricultural and Mechanical Association has not been a grand and complete success is owing solely and entirely to the weather. The first day was cold and rainy, second heavy snow storm from sun rise till night and the third day snow several inches deep being rapidly converted into mud and slush by the bright sunshine. The energy and pluck of the few, who inaugurated and worked up the enterprise deserves the largest degree of commendation, and from what they have done under all sorts of circumstances it is safe to predict a future for the Dixie Fair as bright as that of any other in all the South.

The exhibition of farm and household products, machinery, stock, &c., is very fine. In fact it far surpasses in many respects the most sanguine expectations. The Pee Dee is a great old river, and the people who dwell along its banks and hills and valleys are a great people.

I notice that my erudite friends of the Wilmington Star have twice lately, in speaking of the deceased General Hooker, alluded to his soubriquet of "Fighting Joe" as having been won by him in the war between the States. And therein they err. He was called so long ago, when a young man, by his comrades in the Mexican or frontier wars. And most certainly he deserved it; very certain he was a humane and able soldier and a good man. Not an iota from his fame would I willingly allow a word of mine to detract. Honored be his memory and I wish he and more like him were yet alive. But a little fact occurs which it may not be amiss, even now to put on record.

When superseded—who was it?—in command of the Army of the Potomac the announcement was made with a flourish so great as to almost dazzle and daunt some folks. A war-worn "rebel" general, a pious churchman, a hero who yet lives, was told of it by some one who had seen a "Yankee" paper. And this was his answer:

"Fighting Joe Hooker? fighting hell. I kicked him out of my room at West Point, and down stairs and out o' doors; and the only resistance he made was to try and protect his stern and to say 'tut, tut! you oughn't to do so!"

And that's all I know about "Fighting Joe."

Your Washington correspondent will be at his post again in a few days, and will do his "level best" to interest you and your readers. L.

ASHEVILLE, N. C., Nov 17th.—Social events and the events of the day and these events are brought about during the past week by two things, the first is the long looked for fall of meteors, and the second is a reception that has been hard in our midst.

Almost every house in the village on the nights of the 12th and 13th of this month contained occupants who either at home or abroad spent them sleepless watching for the shower of meteors predicted to fall, but so far as heard from no unusual traces of falling stars has been observed, but whether any gratification was afforded or not from seeing the meteors, they were indirectly the means of making merry for a time many young hearts in the village, for in order that these coming might be looked for with more pleasure that others yet may be obtained from that region.

Federal Court is still in session at this place the term having been continued from last week till this. An important civil suit, Brown vs. Heap and others is in process of trial and has been for some days.

The directory for the Western N. C. R. R. Company on last Tuesday located the depot for this place. Location just above Smith bridge on the French-Broad, the nearest point possible to the village. W.

GUILFORD.

GREENSBORO, Nov. 19.—Last week was a busy week in this city, for here we had the regular morning and night services of the Young Men's Christian Association the whole week, added to which were many other meetings day and night in the interest of the railroad subscription, and all the busy scenes and incidents thereto, and more, as described in my last, and to add to all this, a very large delegation to the State Sunday School Convention was expected, and the preparation necessary thereto (and we were only sorry we were so sadly disappointed in so few coming), desiring to show our usual hospitality, but more so for the interest of that great cause that lays so near at heart (if not to the pockets) of so many thousands in North Carolina. To say we were disappointed hardly expresses the sentiment. The delegates from a distance numbered about thirty, and all persons at all connected with the schools in the county present were made delegates. Forsyth sent the best delegation (about nine), and seems from all reports to be rather the best organized in the work, though Rowan is well organized and represented. Many times last week your correspondent had a desire to be in three places at one time, especially on Saturday, when by pressure of business and the big crowd, he missed the whole of the proceedings of this convention, and will have to refer you to our city papers for items. Upon the whole it was a success, and is looked forward to in the future as a power for good in the land. Rev. D. R. Brewton was chosen president, and C. E. Ebert secretary. J. A. Barringer, on the part of Greensboro, made an address of welcome, to which responses were made by Rev. — Rounthello, of Salem, and others. The following counties reported county organizations, viz: Rowan, Forsyth and Guilford in person, with Cabarrus, Mecklenburg and Orange known to be but not represented. Dr. J. H. Smith made a fine address on the "right culture of our children, especially their religions. Also the Rev. — Rountheller, a very chaste address on "the teacher, the scholar, the lesson," —showing three very important facts necessary to Sunday School work, viz.: perseverance, joy, cheerfulness.

The next meeting will be held in Salisbury. On Sunday afternoon there was a grand union mass meeting of all the city schools at the Methodist church, and though all the delegates had left, yet there was some fine addresses from the city clergy and others, and quite a large gathering of Sunday School scholars.

Last Friday night, a highly favored man, as illustrated in the character of Judas Iscariot; lesson by Rev. P. Harrison, Baptist.

Saturday night the attendance was quite small; rain coming up closed the meeting of the Sunday School convention, and the excitements of the day. Upon the whole, we think much good will come of the week of united prayers of earth's millions of Christians. I desire to say that with all the crowd of Saturday there was no noticeable drunkenness or appearance of drink; all most all of which may be attributed to no licensed bar rooms or open drinking places in the town or county for the past three years.

GREENE.

WILLOW GREEN, Nov. 19.—A great change in the weather since last week, the thermometer then stood at 80°, and now it is down to 30°, and a regular Norwegian snow falling.

Crops are generally housed and now wheat sowing has commenced.

The trade at country stores has fallen off a little since cotton picking is about over. Cotton is now worth 11¼, and the Granville merchants are paying close up to the Baltimore and Norfolk price.

Mr. Charles Bowen, who lives about two miles from this place, killed a dog last week supposed to have that fearful disease, hydrophobia. The damage done in the neighborhood by the dog is not known.

The Rev. W. H. Call preached last Sunday at Ormond's Chapel, 11 o'clock a. m., and not 11 o'clock at night, as you made me say in the report of last week.

The Rev. John N. Andrews passed through this place last Monday from his work on the Edgecombe circuit, to see his son and son-in-law, who live in Lenoir county, near Kinston. The Doctor was looking well and in good spirits. May he live long and do much more good work.

I have just read a copy of the last will and testament of Robert Carr, made in the county of Nansemond, Va., May 1, 1773. The testator was the great grand father of Col. Mathew L. Carr, of Pitt county, who is now about 68 years of age, and has several times represented his county in the State Legislature. The will is in the hands of F. T. Carr, of this place, (who is a nephew of Col. M. L. Carr) in a good state of preservation—quite antiquated. E. H. H.

WANTED TO DROWN HIMSELF FOR LUCK.

Wasn't Permitted to do That, so He Tries to Batter His Brains Out Against a Brick Wall.

Brooklyn Eagle.

As the Fulton ferryboat Farragut was leaving the New York slip at 11 o'clock this morning a tall heavily built, muscular looking man, having the appearance of a well to do mechanic, stepped over the guard chains on the forward part of the boat and stood perilously near the edge. The man was well dressed and had a black, quick, restless eye, which the few passengers standing outside the cabin noticed to have a suspiciously wild look. The deck hands also noticed the man, and kept an eye on his movements. The Farragut had scarcely cleared the slip when the man beyond the chains stepped quickly forward and sprang overboad directly in front of the ferryboat. The pilot saw the leap, and rung the bell to stop the engines. The man sank, and when he rose he was at the side of the boat almost under her wheel, which now was stationary. The deck hands rushed to the stern of the boat, and one of them threw the would be suicide a life preserver, which he refused to lay hold of. The tide being on a strong ebb kept him the side of the boat, so that when one of the men lowered a ladder over the side and stood on the lower part of it he was enabled to grasp the man in the water by the collar. The other deck hands then fastened

A BOAT HOOK IN HIS CLOTHES,

and with the assistance of a rope the man was drawn aboard. While he was in the water he seemed to have thought better of his purpose, for when the deckhand had him by the collar the suicide said, "Keep hold of me; don't let me go." When he was taken into the cabin dripping wet, two bricks were found in his pockets and also a bag of stones, which evinced pretty clearly his determination to succeed in his attempt at self destruction. When the boat reached Brooklyn the would be suicide was put in charge of officer Graham, who took him to the York street Station House. On the way to the station house the officer asked him if he was tired of life, and he answered suddenly and with an oath that he "didn't see why they couldn't let a man drown when he wanted to." At the station house he gave his name as and said he was a printer by occupation, and was 37 years of age. In his pockets were found in a memorandum and a card of membership in the Typographical Union No. 6, New York. The memorandum, which was written in pencil, and was wet and blurred from the recent ducking, was as follows:

CORNELIUS DALY,

4 December, 1876.

George Daly, widower, machinist, and Emma Wilson, spinster, 32, fictitious residences in the City of New York. Real names, Cornelius Daly and Mrs. Emma Henderson, 429 Van Buren, Brooklyn. Married by Rev. ——, No. — Henry street, New York, and said marriage was recorded B'd Vital Stat's.

[Signed] C. DALY.

Captain Crafts had Daly taken down to the lower corridor, where the heated cells are located, and had his clothes taken off and the man wrapped in warm blankets until his clothes could be dried. An officer was placed in charge of him, and was left alone, but the instant the officer turned his head Daly jumped to his feet and forced his way past the policeman and ran up into the yard, and began hurriedly to put on his still dripping clothes. The officer called Captain Crafts from the office, who came out and found the man looking so wild and excited that he thought it best to put him in a cell. He was conducted to an upper cell, and the door was closed upon him, but the lock had scarcely caught when Daly began to

BATTER HIS HEAD FURIOUSLY

against the walls of his prison in a desperate attempt to dash out his brains. The cell door was unlocked, and two stalwart officers rushed in and seized the desperate man and prevented him from destroying himself. He was then conducted to the back room in the station by a warm fire, and again wrapped in blanket, with three officers standing guard over him. He was greatly excited when prevented the second time from killing himself, and appeared chagrined and sullen over his failure. A reporter for the Eagle attempted to learn from him his reasons for endeavoring to make way with himself, but he refused to be interviewed, saying that "he knew what reporters were, and he didn't care to have his reasons known." After his second attempt at suicide Captain Crafts telegraphed for an ambulance surgeon from the City Hospital. Dr. Plympton arrived shortly afterward and pronounced Daly laboring under an incipient attack of

DELIRIUM TREMENS.

Daly admitted he had been drinking hard for the last three weeks, but intimated that he was actuated to this rash act by private family troubles, and spoke of a man named Henderson, employed in the Herald office, who had in his possession a letter which had caused him all his trouble.

Daly was taken to the City Hospital by Surgeon Plympton, under the charge of an officer from the Second Precinct Station.

How foolish are the endeavors of parties to introduce new remedies for coughs and kindred complaints when they should know that the people will have Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup and nothing else.

A World of Good.

One of the most popular medicines now before the American public, is Hop Bitters. You see it everywhere. People take it with good effect. It builds them up. It is not as pleasant to the taste as some other Bitters, as it is not a whiskey drink. It is more like the old-fashioned bone set tea that has done a world of good. If you don't feel just right, try Hop Bitters.—Nunda News.

DAILY NEWS

SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 22.

GEO. C. JORDAN, Editor and Prop'r.

INDIANA has the largest school fund of any State in the Union. It has $11,600,000 in school property and $9,000,000 in the State Treasury, a total of $20,600,000, or $70 to every child attending the public schools.

THE report that the Fenians were secretly purchasing arms and sending them to Europe had its origin in the purchasing and shipping of 10,000 pistols from New York to Liverpool. It was a private speculation simply, and had no connection with politics or an Irish uprising. The heated imagination of some bibulous reporter evolved a deep-laid Fenian plot from a simple commercial transaction.

FEW persons know that China produces a larger cotton crop than the United States. The world is not aware of this, as none of this cotton is exported, all of it being needed at home. The Chinese cotton crop this year is a complete failure, and not enough cloth will be made to clothe the Mongolians decently. The result is a demand for foreign cotton goods. This, indeed, has already begun, as was shown in the report of the American consuls in China, published some time ago, wherein a great increase in the importation of American cottons into China was reported.

THE report sent abroad over the country a few days ago that Kentucky had no original copy of her constitution, and was therefore operating without any organic law, turns out to be altogether sensational and foolish. It appears that there are two enrolled copies of the document, which are kept in a fire-proof vault. When search was made for the instrument, it could not be found only because the new Secretary of State, who took possession of the office in September, where to look for it. As soon as his predecessor learned that the constitution was missing, he promptly named its hiding place, and it was procured without further trouble. So we are yet to have the anomaly of an American State without a constitution.

A Pleasant Passenger.

It was a red-haired, gritty-complexioned man, that got into a Pawtucket car while it was in waiting on the turnout in Providence. With his long hair, capacious felt hat, and a beard like a burning bush, he resembled a returned Californian, and he probably was. There was an ominous silence when he took his seat, for somehow or other there was about the man an air of unusual and desperate business. There was a speck of blood on the ball of his full hazel eye. He confronted the man opposite him and scrutinized him severely, and then in tones like a young cataract demanded:

"Ain't your name Archibald Cusk?"

"That is it, captain," replied the man questioned, looking about him uneasily.

"I was sure no't" thundered the stranger, taking a canvass bag from one pocket and a revolver from the other and placing one each side of him. "Eight years ago I got into this car with the inflammatory rheumatism in my right foot. I made a crutch-rest for it by laying my cane crossways over my crutch. You came crashing into the car and kicked my foot without an apology. While I was wincing in hot-teared agony you said: 'Such a little jog might do me good; these little sudden starts were very waking, and I looked like a man that wanted touching up and waking up a little.' Well, I must have looked stale and haggard. I hadn't slept an hour for four nights, and was trimmed down to ninety pounds or less, but that kick did wake me up, and I have been woke up ever since. I couldn't shoot ye before I went to the gold diggings, because I was too sick and too poor. I'm all fixed now, and here's the ready rhino to settle for it arter I put a lead pill into ye, and now then, as it is me that has woke you up this time, I guess I'll reach out for old bull's eye bimmer and put you to sleep."

As the stranger reached for his revolver the man he had marked for immolation sprang to the car door, leaped to the sidewalk and shot down the street.

"I hain't quite sartin," observed the stranger, "that he is the chap that trod on my foot, and I kinder thought I'd better fix him for a starter till I struck my man."

The New Queen of Spain.

VIENNA, Nov. 18.—Yesterday the Archduchess Christine went through the final form of renunciation of her right of succession to the throne of Austria. The ceremony was brief but solemn. The fair bride-elect, kneeling in front of a small altar in the presence of the Emperor and courtiers, and supported by a cardinal on either side, pronounced the words, which while giving her a royal husband, placed forever beyond her reach the glittering crown of Austria. The marriage contract has been signed and her dowry arranged. Its provisions are regal in their richness, and worthy alike of the reigning house of Austria and the royal bridegroom to whom she will be wedded on the 29th of the present month. To-day the Archduchess set out upon her journey to Madrid, but her progress will be delayed by heavy snow upon the lines of railways. She will proceed by easy stages to Paris, where she will tarry a day or two. The envoys of the King of Spain will meet her on the border and escort her to the Chateau Pardo, nine miles from Madrid, where she, accompanied by her mother and suite, will pass the intervening days till the time fixed for the marriage. The wedding fetes, which it has been determined shall be numerous, will be of an entirely charitable character, and therefore will be extremely popular.

Orvil Grant.

CHICAGO, Nov. 19.—A few days before the arrival of General Grant in this city his brother Orvil appeared and announced his intention of joining in the welcome to be extended to his distinguished relative. Years of trouble had wrought so many changes in Orvil that few of his old friends here, where he had once been in business, recognized him. His clothing was shabby, and his hair and beard, the chief points of his resemblance to the General, were long and bushy. He passed Monday and Tuesday of last week at various hotels, attracting no attention, except by his uncouth appearance. A few army officers, who saw in this seedy individual the brother of the coming guest, took it upon themselves to run him out of town, believing that the General should not be embarrassed by his presence during the approaching festivities. By dint of persuasion, a liberal supply of liquor, and some force, the great man's brother was put on board a train bound for St. Louis, and is now in that city. When General Grant arrived he learned that Orvil had been here, and expressed regret that he had not seen him, little thinking that some of those most busily paying court to him had deprived him of that pleasure. He returned to Galena to-day ignorant of the true state of affairs, but the story leaked out this afternoon and of course reached him in due course of time.

The University Railroad.

Correspondence of the News.

CHAPEL HILL, Nov. 19.—The chief topic of interest here now is the University railroad. A charter was given by the last legislature, which gives the right to run the road from Chapel Hill to any point on the North Carolina railroad or on the Raleigh and Augusta Air-Line or on the Cape Fear & Yadkin Valley Railroad. As over ten thousand dollars is subscribed, the shareholders will have the right to organize the company and begin work.

The people of Chapel Hill are moving in the matter, now in earnest, and will give what they can to build the road. The road will run to that point which will give such aid as to make itself most accessible. Durham being nearest to us and offering some aid, it is quite natural that our attention should be directed to that place. A committee is now at work soliciting subscriptions of stock on that route.

This road to Chapel Hill will open a country which raises a good deal of cotton, wheat, etc., and which now buys largely at Raleigh. Nearly all the produce raised in this section, and for many miles west of us, has hitherto been marketed in Raleigh, in wagons, because of the high local freights. The wagons come back loaded with all sorts of merchandise in exchange for their produce. If this road is built to Durham all of the trade of this section will go to Durham. This is not all. This road will not stop at Durham. It will be extended to Oxford, or some point north, and south to some point on the R. & G. R. R. That will give us a through line North and South. We will then have all the advantages of competing lines. This line must certainly cut off much trade and travel from Raleigh. Durham is a rapidly growing, live place, and is becoming a dangerous rival to Raleigh. She sees the opportunity thus offered her by this road, and is not likely to let it go to Raleigh or to any other place.

The State has given one hundred convicts to do the work, and the $10,000 stock will soon be subscribed. The men who furnish this money will locate the road. It would seem that the business men of Raleigh would think it worth while to secure this new feeder to the trade of their city. The people of Cary and Mooresville, and at other points along the route, seem anxious for the road to run in that direction; but the merchants of Raleigh seem to consider that they have no interest in the matter. The question is this: Can Raleigh afford to let another northern through line be run within some twenty-five miles of her borders? Or will she cut off this current and turn it to fill her own warehouses?

Prof. Harkness on Meteors.

New York Herald.

Permit me to say that that astronomers do not anticipate any important display at present. The November meteors are due to a stream of metoric matter whose perihelion intersects the orbit of the earth while its aphelion is in the neighborhood of the orbit of Uranus. Centuries ago this meteoric matter was all concentrated into a tolerably compact mass, which traveled along the orbit just specified, but the action of the planets upon it has been such as to draw it out more and more until now it is scattered along the whole orbit in such wise as to form a closed ring. However, the scattering is not uniform. On the contrary, there is one part of the ring which is far more dense than any other. Bearing in mind that the ring is continually traveling around the sun, just as the rim of a wagon wheel travels around its axle, it is evident that every November the earth must pass through some part of the meteor stream: but as the earth requires only one year to make a revolution about the sun, while the meteor stream requires thirty-three and a quarters years, we pierce a different part of the stream each year. If it happens to be a dense part, there is a fine display of meteors, but if not, there are few meteors. Owing to the time of revolution of the ring the whole cycle of meteoric displays must occupy a period of one-third of a century; and it is known that the length of that part of the cycle during which extraordinary displays are possible is at least two and a quarter years. The last great displays were in 1866 and 1867. This year we pass through the ring at a point far removed from the dense portion, and but few meteors will be seen. An important display cannot be expected before the years 1898 to 1901.

Key West Cigars.

New Orleans Times.

The revolution in Cuba has brought about to a large extent a revolution in the manufacture of cigars. A large number of persons, formerly the cigar-makers of Cuba, became refugees in various parts of the United States. Baltimore and New York received some, New Orleans a great many, and Key West a large number, considering the size and pretension of that island. There is scarcely a doubt but that the manufacture of New Orleans has attained a higher degree of perfection than it ever reached in Cuba in the palmiest days of that island. It is also a large center of production. But for some inexplicable reason Key West has obtained a special reputation, and "Key West" cigars, so-called have the call in the markets of the North and West. In matters of this kind everything is in the name; yet the fact remains that not more than 5 per cent o the cigars sold under the name of "Key West" were made on that island. "Key West" as relating to cigars, is the synonym of "Habana" but they are quite as largely produced in Florida, Connecticut, New York, Baltimore, Savannah and New Orleans as on the Island of Key West. But of the Key West cigar proper, it is to be remarked that it is made out of tobacco imported from Cuba, such not always being the case of cigars made at the East and sold under the name of "Key West."

The Mail's Bail.

To Mr. Jonathan Bullock, of Edgecombe, were are indebted for a barrel of turnips.—Goldsboro Mail.

An editor sat in his ricketty chair
With pencil and paper in hand—
Scratching his head, but finding no cheer
As his nails filled up with sand
He munched his quid, (as editors do,)
And fingered his pockets in vain,
In search of a dime or a cent or two,
To word off the "old hen's" blame.
No (s)cent was there, but that of the weed,
So be used an ugly oath.
And wrote a page to take the lead
In the Mail of the 24th.
In a desperate mood the door bell rang,
"Walk in," cried Avera, meekly,—
And the visitor with horny hands,
Took "Six months in the weekly."
Our editor smiled and stroked his chin
And wondered "what had turned up."
The "weekly" man acknowledged the grin
But paid him off in turnips.

General Grant has taken to giving advice. His advice to his countrymen is to avoid all bitterness of party feeling. "Let us be true to ourselves"—these are his reported words—"avoid all bitterness and ill feeling, either on the part of sections or parties, toward each other."

Very well, General Grant, why do you not set an example of what you recommend to others?

You have been President eight years, as long as Washington, Jefferson, Madison or Jackson held the office. Now if you had gone on, and, to show that you felt just as you advise others to feel, had avowed your readiness to support such an honorable and distinguished Democrat as General Hancock for President, your sincerity would have been apparent.

But perhaps your advice was for others, and not for yourself to follow.

Behold Me a Well Woman.

CANCER.

MONTGOMERY, ALA., June 26, 1878.

H. R. STEVENS, BOSTON.

DEAR SIR:—I have for years been a sufferer from a dreadful CANCER in my side which caused me untold agony, and as I am a widow with a family dependent upon my exertions for a support, my pain of body was only equalled by my pain of mind, at seeing my children want for bread. I was presented by a kind friend in Cincinnati with half a dozen bottles of Vegetine, and although one bottle is still untouched, behold me a well woman, completely restored in body and mind, and able to perform my accustomed duties. Long may you live! and may the history of my wonderful cure lead other like sufferers to purchase your valuable medicine, if it is with the last cent they possess.

Yours gratefully,
MRS. FULLER SUTT.

H. R. STEVENS, BOSTON:

I have been suffering for 25 years with the Piles and found but little relief from any medicine that I have taken for many years past. Last winter I suffered considerably worse than ever before, also in connection with Rheumatism I was confined to my bed for several weeks. Having procured a bottle of Vegetine I took it with good effect. I continued the use, and after taking four or five bottles, find myself comparatively cured. I can cheerfully recommend it for the benefits that I have received from it.

Yours respectfully,

I take great pleasure in recommending your Vegetine. I have been suffering for a long time with the Lung Disease; trying every kind of medicine that I could get, but none seemed to do me any good, until I tried your great Vegetine remedy. I had used it only a short time before I could discover a very great change in my health for the better. I don't consider that your medicine has its equal, for the diseases which you propose to cure, especially the disease that I have been afflicted with Health Association.

The topic for discussion at the May session was the inquiry: Whether the yellow fever originate in the United States" An elaborate paper entitled "Etiology of the Empidemic at Savannah in '76," by Dr. Alfred A. Woodhull, of the United States army was read by Dr. Hunt, of New Jersey. The paper claimed that the disease unquestionably originated in Savannah. The question turning upon the indigenous or imported character of the disease, an animated discussion ensued participated in by Drs. Campbell, of Georgia, Hodges, of Pensacola, Harward, Baltimore, Austin, New Orleans, Bell, Baltimore, Kello, Arkansas, Holliday, New Orleans, Stumburg, United States army, Wise, Memphis, Tyner, Memphis, and Stilwell, Kentucky. The preponderance of opinion seemed to be against the position assumed the paper of Dr. Wodhull. Among the speakers were physicians of from three to forty years experience in yellow fever cases.

What They Say.

Rev. J. E. Rankin, D. D., of Washington, D. C., certifies of Warner's Safe Kidney and Liver Cure: "I do not doubt that it has great virtue." Rev. C. A. Harvey, D. D., Secretary of Howard University, certifies that for Bright's disease "no other remedy can be held for one moment in comparison with this." E. W. Neff, of Detroit, Mich., certifies that it completely cured him of a very serious chronic liver complaint. J. H. Sherlock, of Rochester, N. Y., certifies that it cured him of Bright's disease of several years' standing, and that he believes it to be the most valuable remedy ever discovered. These are samples of hundreds of other testimonials.

Cuticura

FROM THE HON. WM. TAYLOR, STATE SENATOR OF MASSACHUSETTS.

MESSRS. WEEKS & POTTER: Gentlemen,—To say that I am grateful, is only a poor expression of my feelings, but it is the best word I can use, for I feel it in every sense of the word. I have been a great sufferer with skin diseases for the last twelve (12) years. My head and face being covered with sores, I could not rest with the burning heat and itching of the parts affected, and was confined to my house for weeks at a time. My disease has been called Eczema, of a most aggravated type, by many physicians, but I doubt if ever fully understood by any of them. It was more like a combination of several skin humors. I have spent much money seeking a cure, and in 1867 I went to Europe, and consulted some of the best physicians in London. I received temporary relief only, for in the spring it would break out again as bad as ever. When I came back to Boston, I was told by many friends that Dr. —— (whose reputation for the cure of those diseases was of the highest order) could cure me. I waited on the doctor; he prescribed for me. I followed his advice for six months, and I can safely say, without any improvement. I tried other physicians and among them Dr. ——, of East Boston, and Dr. ——, of city proper, but all to no purpose. They did me no good; their remedies were so ineffectual that at no time did I feel that a cure would result from them.

I have swallowed five hundred arsenic pills, 5.20 grain, and taken bottle after bottle of internal remedies, besides all the external applications I have used, but the effect was the same. I became satisfied that I could not be cured, but might be kept from getting worse.

Now, about three months ago, Mr. Meehan, a gentleman well known to Boston people, called my attention to your CUTICURA, and promised wonderful results if I would only make a trial. He told me of his own experience with it, and so persevered on me that I went with him to a drug store and bought two large boxes of CUTICURA, and some CUTICURA SOAP, and commenced to use it according to the directions. There was so much humor lodged within the skin, that as soon as I commenced the use of CUTICURA it came to the surface and festered, until vast quantities had come out and greatly intensified my sufferings for about two weeks. But I did not mind this, as I felt that I was going to get rid of the humor when I saw it coming to the surface in such large quantities. After the first two or three weeks use of this remedy, I was greatly encouraged by a gradual lessening of the inflammation of a number of painful sores. I carefully, faithfully, and cheerfully followed the directions to the letter, feeling each week nearer a cure, until at the present moment, after three months' use of CUTICURA, and twelve years of as constant suffering as was ever endured, I can say that I am cured, and pronounce my case the most remarkable on record. I have been so elated with my success that I have stopped men on the street who were afflicted, and told them to get the CUTICURA and it would cure them. This is why I am so grateful to you, for I believe it to be the best and greatest discovery of the age, and that it will cure all who are suffering with these diseases. I may add that I took no internal medicine but the CUTICURA RESOLVENT.

WILLIAM TAYLOR.

Rosadalis.

ROSADALIS

THE GREAT SOUTHERN remedy for the cure of Scrofula, Scrofulous Taint, Rheumatism, White Swelling Gout, Goitre, Consumption, Bronchitis, Nervous Debility and all diseases arising from an impure condition of the Blood.

The merits of this valuable preparation are so well known that a passing notice is but necessary to remind the readers of this journal of the necessity of always having a bottle of this medicine among their stock of family necessities.

Certificates can be presented from many leading Physicians, Minister, and heads of families throughout the South, endorsing in the highest terms The Fluid Extract of Rosadalis.

DR. R. WILLIAM CARR, of Baltimore says he has used it in cases of Scrofula and other diseases with much satisfaction.

DR. T. C. PUGH, of Baltimore, recommends it to all persons suffering with diseased Blood, saying it is superior to any preparation he has ever used

REV DABNEY BALL, of the Baltimore M. E. Conference South, says he is so much benefited by its use that he cheerfully recommends it to all his friends and acquaintances.

CRAVEN & CO. Druggists, of Gordonsville, Va., says it never has failed to give satisfaction.

Samuel G. McFadden, of Murfreesboro, Tennessee, says it cured him of Rheumatism when all else failed.

Rosadalis is not a secret quack preparation, its ingredients are published on every package. Show it to your Physician and he will tell you it is composed of the strongest alteratives that exist, and is an excellent blood purifier. Did our space admit we could give you testimonials from every State in the South and from persons known to every man, woman and child either personally or by reputation,

Rosadalis is sold by all Druggists.

The Rentz-Santley Novelty Company.

It is seldom that our people are treated to a better entertainment than was presented to the Raleigh public last evening. The whole conception of the different "novelties" was good. Wilson and Benedict are boss as endmen and kept the audience in a roar of laughter at their jokes. Sandford and Wilson are splendid in their conception of the different negro characters. Miss Lizzie Daly knows exactly how to knock off a clog dance and did it to the satisfaction and appreciation of her audience. In the afterpiece, the Pinafore burlesque, everything and everybody did well and it was good. Lulu Mortiner is a splendid formed young lady as is Josephine, Miss Rosa Lee. They are all a daisy set of young ladies. Neilie Richards as well as others had her admirers.

"Little Buttercup," Mabel Santley, captivated her audience as usual. Few ladies were present. Space forbids further mention.

Why Will You

Allow a cold to advance in your system and thus encourage more serious maladies, such as Pneumonia, Hemorrhages and Lung troubles when an immediate relief can be so readily attained. Boschee's German Syrup has gained the largest sale in the world for the cure of Cough, Colds and the severest Lung Diseases. It is Dr. Boschee's famous German prescription, and is prepared with the greatest care, and no fear need be entertained in administering it to the youngest child, as per directions. The sale of this medicine is unprecedented. Since first introduced there has been a constant increasing demand and without a single report of a failure to do its work in any case. Ask your Druggist as to the truth of these remarks. Large size 75 cents. Try it and be convinced.

What Physicians at Home and Abroad Think of the Seven Springs Iron and Alum Mass.

In the treatment of Dyspepsia, Chlorosis, Anæmia, Nervous and Muscular Debility, Nervous and Sick Headache, Dysmenorrhœa, Menorrhagia, Amenorrhœa, diseases of the Kidneys and Bladder and such like organic or functional disturbances, I know of no remedy upon which I can rely with more certainty of satisfactory results than the "Seven Springs Mass."

W. F. BARR, M. D.,
Abingdon, Va.

I have found no one single remedy to yield such satisfactory results as the "Seven Springs Mass." In the treatment of Dyspepsia, Chronic Diarrhœa, Anæmia, Chlorosis, and for Chronic Eczema, I find it invaluable, associated with appropriate topical treatment.

GEO. T. HARRISON, M. D.,
New York City.

From my experience with the "Iron and Alum Mass," I believe it will prove the best medicine we have in use, for chronic diseases.

G. M. D. PATTERSON, M. D.,
Eaglewood, Texas.

For Dyspepsia, Ulcerations of the Throat, Inflammation of the Neck of the Bladder, Leucorrhœa, etc., the "Seven Springs Mass" seems to act with almost specific effect.

E. O. GRIGSBY,
DeView, Ark.

We could extend this list into the thousands with such testimonials from physicians from every State in the Union, but these are sufficient to indicate its application. The reputation of the remedy is too widely known to waste words upon its character. In ordering from druggists always mention Seven Springs Mass. Price $1 per package or six for $5, sent by mail, postpaid.

Handmade Shoes, "such as the new style of French and English Toes. A new lot of Opera Cloaks. The third stock of the celebrated Pearl Shirts, from $1.00 to $1.25 and $1.35. My upstairs Clothing Department cannot be excelled. JOS. P. GULLY.

Do you suffer with neuralgia or headach? If so take Neuralgine and be relieved. Every bottle guaranteed to give satisfaction if taken according to directions. Hutchinson & Bros., Proprietors, 14 Whitehall street, Atlanta, Georgia. Sold by Pescud, Lee & Co., and William Simpson, Raleigh.

Political Issues.

Kearney's advice to all parties is to "pool their issues." We think a good deal as he does, that we should bury the dead issues of the past. As a healing compound for all issues, sores, wounds &c., there is nothing equal to Henry's Carbolic Salve. Beware of counterfeits.

Practical Economy.

Before Patapsco Baking Powder was patented and placed on the market consumers had to pay 50 cents per pound for the old rut powders. You can now buy Patapsco for about one-half that amount and get a better article. This accounts for the popularity of Patapsco.

STATE OF NORTH CAROLINA,
EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT.

By authority of law, I Thomas J. Jarvis, Governor of North Carolina, do set apart, Thursday, November 27th, 1879, as a day of prayer and thanksgiving to Almighty God, for the manifold mercies and blessings He has vouchsafed to us during the year now passing away.

And in order for its proper observance I request the people on that day to close up their places of business and abandoning all secular pursuits to attend their respective places of Divine Worship, to return thanks to the Great Ruler of individuals and nations for the peace and tranquility which we have enjoyed; for the exemption from pestilence and disease which He has given us; for the kind and friendly relations that has existed among all classes of our citizens; for the general and growing prosperity that has pervaded the whole State and for all His varied blessings bestowed upon us; and to invoke a continuance of His watchful care and protection over us during the coming year.

And while it will be becoming on that day to remember the widow and the orphan, and the poor and needy everywhere among us; and to minister to their wants, I especially commend to the prayers and gifts of the people the Orphans in the Asylum at Oxford, who are now dependent for a support solely upon the charity of the people, the State appropriation for that purpose being entirely exhausted

{ L. S. } Done at our city of Raleigh, this, the 11th day of November, in the year of Our Lord, one thousand eight hundred and seventy nine, and in the one hundred and fourth year of our American Independence.

By the Governor,
THOMAS J. JARVIS.

25¢ DYSPEPSIA 25¢
CLERGY & DOCTORS TESTE
VEST POCKET CURE

Rev. Dr. Mangum, Prof. Univ. of N. C. I concur with Bishop Doggett in his estimate of the Vest Pocket Cure.

Rev. Drs. Jeter, Broaddus, Dickinson, (Bap.) It is indorsed by the direct personal testimony of men of national fame and strictness of speech. It is not too much to say that no medicine ever had such support in its favor as a specific. The word of any one of the eminent divines who underwrite this antidote to dyspepsia has deserved weight. Their united witness joined with the experimental use and approval of the preparation by well-known physicians, removes all doubt. It is beyond question, a wonderful therapeutical agent.—Editors Religious Herald, Va.

Chaplain Randolph Macon College, Va. Many cases of Dyspepsia within my knowledge have been cured by it. Cramps, Colics, Headaches and all sorts of pains from indigestion yield promptly to it. The cures of this sort are innumerable.

Rev. R. L. Dabney, LL.D., Col. Va. It is highly esteemed here by the regular Medical Faculty and the people. It is excellent for indigestion and flatulent colic, sedative, soporific, tonic, slightly aperient, without nausea.

Rev. B F. Woodward P. E., Na. Conf. About twelve years I suffered from Dyspepsia. Falling in with this remedy, I gave it a fair trial. After its use I could eat anything with impunity. I am sure I am indebted to this medicine for what of health and physical comfort I have had for the last sixteen years. I have known many since to be relieved by its use.

Rev. Robert W. Watts, A. M., Va. I have used the mixture in my family for years, and have taken it for a Dyspepsia colic, which threatened my life, and was cured, eating any diet without hurt. I have recommended it to other sufferers with happiest results. It is the best tonic and corrective I ever knew. For prostration from Dyspepsia or Liver Disease it is invaluable.

J. D. Eggleston, M. D., Va. It is a highly valuable remedy, and is more extensively used than any single article in the whole list of medicines, so far as I observed in my practice, for all the complaints families from indigestion. I use it and recommend it.

Editor Richmond Christian Advocate. This remedy is of tried virtue. I have seen Dyspepsia cured completely by it. It seems to be an antidote to our National Disease." The ingredients are not kept by the apothecaries, and have been difficult to get.
